In addition, applicant notes with respect to any information that is not in English language as follows:

Reference G) describes a method using dehumidifying and cooling potential of used air from the room to process external air, whereby the enthalpy of the induced external air is reduced in a rotating, regenerative, rapidly running absorption exchanger connected to a compound circuit system with heat exchangers, a circulation pump and a compensation container combined with an evaporator of a refrigeration system. The method involves using the dehumidifying and cooling potential of used air from the room to process external air, whereby the enthalpy of the induced external air is reduced in a rotating, regenerative, rapidly running absorption exchanger (2) and dehumidified and cooled, further dehumidification and cooling in a subsequent heat exchanger (3), a further reduction in enthalpy of the feed air flow in the subsequent evaporator (4), using a further heat exchanger (5) to reheat to the desired feed air state, feeding the output air into the absorption exchanger without thermal pretreatment, humidifying and heating the output air in the absorption exchanger, taking heat into the output air in the condenser (12) and feeding it to the atmosphere as exhaust air. Independent claims are also included for the following: an air conditioning arrangement for humid-and-hot and hot climatic regions.

The above-identified application discloses and claims an invention patentable over this prior art.

Entry of the references above set forth into the file of the above application is believed to be in order and is respectfully requested.

Respectfully submitted
